Seva At Home Announces Medical Advisory Board With Globally-Recognised Doctors
India's leading health and wellness company has announced its Medical Advisory Board which consists of professionals with decades of experience.

Nashua, New Hampshire (4 May, 2023): Seva At Home, a leader in home healthcare in India, has announced the formation of a Medical Advisory Board comprising top doctors across different specialities to provide operational guidance and support the company as it offers new healthcare programmes and services. They bring decades of experience and expertise in their respective fields and will provide valuable insights and advice on the development and implementation of Seva At Home's cutting-edge health technologies that improve patient outcomes and enhance the delivery of care. This serves as a way for Seva At Home to further enhance its role as the trusted healthcare partner for families, individuals and companies across India.

Joining the Board are pioneers and thought leaders in the medical industry across specialities:

1. Dr. Vinayak Agrawal
Director & Head of Department, Clinical Cardiology and Cardiac Imaging, Fortis Memorial Research Institute
2. Dr. Dinesh Bhurani
Director, Hemato-Oncology & Bone Marrow Transplantation, Rajiv Gandhi Cancer Institute & Research Centre
3. Dr. Sumit Singh
Chief Neurology and Co-Chief Stroke Unit, Artemis Agrim Institute of Neurosciences, Gurugram
4. Dr. Vijay Kher
Chairman, Department of Nephrology & Transplant Medicine, Epitome Kidney & Urology Institute

In the healthcare industry, it remains vital to continuously meet customer expectations and earn their trust. By working with seasoned healthcare advisors who have a firsthand understanding of the policies and programmes that need to be put in place, Seva At Home is making strides to enhance its value. The establishment of the board reflects the company's commitment to collaborating with leading medical experts to drive innovation in healthcare, and also its commitment to its patients. By bringing together some of the best minds in the industry, innovative solutions can be created to meet our community's most pressing healthcare challenges.

"We are thrilled to welcome these esteemed doctors to our Medical Advisory Board. There is a drastic change in the way India is viewing healthcare, prompted by spikes in chronic diseases and more; this has underscored the value of preventive care and also accessible care. At Seva At Home, we have successfully built a platform to provide both, and now we are fortunate to have globally-acclaimed professionals to provide experience-driven recommendations. Their collective knowledge will be invaluable as we continue to create more programmes that provide value and enhance the quality of life. This Board is an integral part of Seva At Home's growth, and we're proud to be working alongside veterans in the industry to make a meaningful impact," said Atul Gandhi, Founder-CEO, Seva At Home.

"Our Medical Advisory Board has been carefully created for depth of experience, diversity in expertise, technical acumen and human-centric approach. Each Advisor is a thought leader in their own field, and has demonstrated each of these qualities throughout their careers; we are honoured to have them be a part of the Seva family, where their knowledge will help advance our mission of delivering quality healthcare," said Arun Datta, Chief Operating Officer, Seva At Home.
